Blink of an eye commercials: 2 minutes to introduce yourself to the group and tell about your product and draw a name for your door prize (if you choose to have one) Some choose to but some donate something to the silent or live auction (great publicity for your products as well) and some do both.

You are invited to attend workshops and cracker barrels once innkeepers have sat down in classrooms if you are not busy selling. Also you are invited to attend Field Trip Tuesday for same great price as innkeepers ($65 each) All meals are included in your fee for one person and extra fee for second or third person. See application for more details. It would be a good time to get to know your customers “breaking bread”. Many innkeepers come to the conference to buy and get to know the people who sell the products that make them successful.

We so look forward to this great event and hope you will be a part of it.
